Information Every Anthropology Graduate Student Wants To Know

General CSULB Anthropology Graduate Information

Writing Proficiency Exam (WPE)
- Must take first semester. Two test dates are offered each semester on a Saturday. Check CSULB Testing Services for exact dates. You must register a month prior to the testing date so check dates right away.
  http://www.csulb.edu/divisions/students2/testing/test_information/wpe/

Language Requirement - must be completed before graduation. Plan for learning language must be approved by the Anthropology Graduate Advisor in the first semester.

Advancement to Candidacy – usually during second semester after 6-9 units have been completed and the WPE is passed. Must do advancement before beginning thesis work.

Thesis/Project
- Think of a topic – first semester
- Find a site for internship - start looking right away. Internship is done in summer after your first year. 150 hours on site required. Set up research site semester prior to internship (usually Spring of first year). Register for ANTH 675 in Fall of the year you do your internship.
- Form committee – first identify your chair and with the help of your chair, find 2 other committee members. Form committee as soon as you know your topic.
- Proposal - highly recommend to have a copy of the proposal completed by the end of April (or before) so the committee has time to review it and meet. Proposal ideas should be approved by your chair before submitting them to the other committee members. Your chair is your first reviewer and should see and approve everything before the rest of the committee reviews it.
- IRB – this process may take multiple revisions, once you have your research ideas planned and approved by your committee, submit your IRB application. This should happen before or in correspondence with your proposal.
  o Standard Review – required if research has more than minimal risk, deals with children under 18 or anyone without full legal autonomy. Must submit the application by the last Thursday of the month. It will be reviewed the 2nd Thursday of the following month.
  o Expedited Review – If research has minimal risk (all anthropology projects and research does), but does not require standard review for the above reasons. A subcommittee reports results within 10 working days of submission o See the CSULB Office of University Research website for more information.

- Proposal Defense - After writing proposal and being approved by IRB set up a date for a proposal defense. You need to give committee at least 2 weeks to review your documents before the defense.
- Gather research – summer after first year and/or fall of 2nd year.
- Analysis of research – 3rd semester or as gathering
- Write Thesis – 3rd and 4th semester – Any major changes must go through your Committee Chair. As you complete drafts of chapters, submit them to thesis committee for review.
- Thesis defense – a copy of the thesis must be given to the committee members 2 weeks prior to the defense date. Ideally this should be a month before the library due date so there is time for changes.
- Thesis submission – A copy of the thesis must be submitted to the library early in the semester. The due date for Spring graduation is usually between the middle of February and the end of March. The due date for Fall graduation is usually the middle of September through the end of October. Check the CSULB Library Thesis Office website for exact dates. Prepare early, because this date comes quickly!
  o Appointments are available for help with thesis formatting (see website).
  o Website also includes many resources on how to format and properly write the thesis o After thesis is submitted it will be reviewed and returned with corrections. Once the corrections are made and the thesis is reviewed and accepted the clearance process begins. If thesis is rejected, then the graduation date will be postponed.
  o No late submissions accepted

Graduation – must apply for graduation the beginning of the semester before. For Spring graduation apply the year prior between May 1st and October 15th. For Fall graduation, apply December 1st (of year prior) to March 1st (of same year). Dates may change, so check CSULB Enrollment Services website for exact dates and more information about requirements.
  - http://www.csulb.edu/depts/enrollment/graduation/masters_degree.html
  - If deadline is missed, there is a small fee for applying late

Library
- Many resources available – databases, refworks, Link+ and interlibrary loans
- Workshops available for help in writing research papers, thesis, and using resources. See Library website for dates.
