GETTY SUMMER MULTICULTURAL UNDERGRADUATE INTERNSHIPS

"The exposure was just incredible. I have never learned and enjoyed myself at the same time this much before. This internship has definitely motivated me to pursue a career in the arts."
— former intern

"It was amazing that within 10 weeks I would be working on three art collections, preserving and conserving them for future generations. It made me realize that one person really can make a difference."
— former intern

More than 100 positions available in local museums and visual arts organizations!

Overview
The Getty Foundation offers funding to Los Angeles-area museums and visual arts organizations for multicultural undergraduate internships during each summer. It also offers positions in diverse departments at the Getty Center and Getty Villa. Internships offer students experience in key areas such as curatorship, conservation, education, publications, and related programmatic activities. Programmed activities provide students with broad exposure to career possibilities in museums and visual arts organizations. Internship stipends are provided.

Eligibility
The Multicultural Undergraduate Internships are intended specifically for outstanding students who are members of groups currently underrepresented in museum professions and fields related to the visual arts: individuals of African American, Asian, Latino/Hispanic, Native American, and Pacific Islander descent. Eligible applicants must be currently enrolled undergraduates who either reside or attend college in Los Angeles County and will have completed at least one semester of college by June of the internship year.
