OC Register - Intern

I have received permission from the Register to seek my own intern to work with me on the Fast Food Maven blog. In 2009, the blog was the No. 2 most viewed blog at the Register. I am overwhelmed with work, and could really use a smart journalism student to help out. It could be anyone willing to start now, or after school gets out.

It is an UNPAID internship. What I can offer is certified hours of learning at a major California media/newspaper company. I’m looking for someone who can multi-task; basic knowledge of gathering facts; someone who understands social media (or at least willing to learn); willing to eat fast-food (food will be reimbursed); and someone who can drive.

Any one interested, please contact Nancy Luna at nluna@ocregister.com
