Through their studies, political science students gain a versatile set of skills that can be applied in a wide range of exciting careers in federal, state and local governments; law; business; international organizations; nonprofit associations and organizations; campaign management and polling; journalism; pre-collegiate education; electoral politics; research; and university and college teaching.

Keep in mind that choosing a major is not the same as choosing a career. Career options may be determined partly by the choice of your major (Political Science), but also by your interests, skills, values, and types of work experiences acquired during college or before you entered college. Many careers do not require a specific major, but rather a wide range of demonstrated skills, accomplishments, and related work experience. Employers say that the skills they prize most are communication, a strong work ethic, teamwork, being analytical, and taking initiative.

QUICK TIPS: FINDING AND APPLYING FOR JOBS

Implementing the tips outlined below can increase your likelihood of securing a job after graduation. For more detailed guidance, please consult the additional links and resources on the reverse of this info sheet.

JOB SEARCH TIPS

- Create, complete, or update a LinkedIn profile
- Register on Glassdoor.com to read employees’ reviews
- Register on Indeed.com for job listings
- Use discretion with social media or make accounts “private”
- Check out books from the POSC Resource Library to explore career options (available in the Department office: SPA-257)
- Use “Career Link” on the Career Development Center Website to find employers looking for CSULB graduates

COVER LETTER

- Introduction should only be a few sentences
- Highlight your experiences and skills
- Should be 1-2 pages and should not exceed 3 pages

RESUME

- Remove designs and graphics from your resume
- Contact info should be at the top and not in the header
- Use a professional email address only
- Remove “objective” from resume and replace with “area of expertise”
- Remove “references provided by request”
- Change job tasks/duties to achievement/results
- Look at job posting and use the key words from the job posting itself in resume
- Pay careful attention to spelling, punctuation, grammar, and style
- Keep information honest, clear, and concise
- Print on good quality white or off white paper
- When sending electronically, save as PDF

INTERVIEW

- Research the company (i.e. website, press releases, Google)
- Don’t just speak about what you have done in past employment; specify how your experiences will be assets in the job
- Google “100 Best Questions to Ask in a Job Interview”
- Practice your interview with a friend; have them ask you difficult questions
- Dress professionally
- Show enthusiasm
- Be punctual; arrive early
- Never ask about salary in the first interview
- Be courteous and respectful with everyone you meet
- Turn off your electronic devices
- Make eye contact and use a firm handshake
- Be ready to describe your strengths and weaknesses
- Bring extra copies of your resume and list of references
- After the interview, send a thank you letter/email within 24 hours
